

It was with sincere regret, that we heard of the death of Conservative MP Robert Adley recently. Bob Adley was born in Sussex of Jewish parents, but in 1968 he renounced Judaism and converted to Christianity. In 1974, Bob became the MP for Christchurch in Hants, and continued to hold the seat until his death. Our respect for Bob was because of his political independence. Although officially a Tory MP, he consistently voted as his conscience dictated, and this attitude often led him into conflict with his party. Bob also frequently upset various Foreign Office officials by both supporting Palestinian rights and visiting countries that the F.O. would prefer him not to. He also upset the Conservative Party's large Jewish lobby by describing Israel as a "bandit state" and its leader Yitzhaak Shamir, as a terrorist. It is doubtful that the present system of Party politics, or the Conservative Friends of Israel, would ever allow another "Rebel" of Bob's character to emerge again.

The responsibility for the death of Black teenager Stephen Lawrence, must be placed firmly on the heads of the successive British governments whose policies of mass immigration has led to the frustrations of White youths who feel that both they, and their birthrights have been betrayed. These frustrations often lead to violence, and occasionally in death. But also, hasn't it been appalling to watch how the various anti-Fascist and anti-Racist groups have fought like vultures over Stephens corpse. So bad did it get, that the Lawrence family, instead of being allowed to mourn in private, were forced to engage solicitors to threaten legal action if the vultures didn't leave them alone. It now seems that the Black dominated Anti-Racist Alliance (ARA), have won the battle with a glitzy "roadshow", that has even included a visit from Nelson Mandela, and predictably, there are sour grapes in the camps of the losers. Mutterings heard at internal ANAL gatherings, would not be out of place at a Klan rally, and the AFA's unofficial monthly, Searchlight, has even accused the rival ARA of "making the Lawrence family virtual prisoners".

But I wonder, where were the ARA, ANAL, Panther UK, AFA, Searchlight and Nelson Mandela, when P.C. Keith Blakelock, a victim of "Black" racial murder, was being buried.???

Mandella appears with Mrs Lawrence on the "Roadshow". But he is absent when White victims of Black "Racist violence" are being buried!

Some time ago, Nationalists were criticised by government, local officials, as well as the media, for distributing Nationalist leaflets and publications outside of schools. Now it has come to our attention,, that the Tyne & Wear Anti-Fascist Association the only publicly funded anti-Fascist group in Europe, have started to distribute copies of its magazine "Unity" free to schools in the region. I hope Nationalists will now do the same!

Nationalists, are by nature traditionalists. So it was nice to see that the annual "Unity Carnival" organised by "Anti-Fascist Action" finished with its traditional punch-up. Many people feared that moving it from London to Newcastle would somehow "lower the tone of the event", and experienced "anti's" from the "Smoke" were even worried that the local "Geordies" would not appreciate the finer traditions of the Carnival, such as the punch-up. However, all of our worries came to nowt, the Carnival was held, it rained, people got muddy, and there was a mass fight. Nice to know nothing changes. Isn't it !

LEST WE FORGET

The 31st of July 1993, will be the forty-sixth anniversary of a most hideous War Crime, committed by terrorists, against British soldiers. For, on the afternoon of that day, the bodies of two British Army sergeants, Clifford Martin, and Mervyn Paice, were found hanging by piano wire from Eucalyptus trees, in a peaceful grove in Palestine, murdered by Jewish terrorists.

The two soldiers had been kidnapped in the early hours of the 12th of July, and had been tortured.

When discovered, their hands had been tied behind their backs, and pieces of shirt had been wrapped around their heads.

Their bodies had been booby-trapped with explosives, in an attempt to kill or maim, whoever attempted to cut them down.

A notice reading "This is the sentence of Irgun's high tribunal"

Sergeants, Martin and Paice, had been the victims of one of the two most savage terrorist organisations of the Twentieth Century.

One was Irgun Evai Leumi, led by Menechem Begin, a murderer who would later become the Prime Minister of Israel.

The other, the Stern Gang, had amongst its leaders, Yitzak Shamir, who would also become Prime Minister Israel.

The Jewish terror campaign in Palestine, was launched almost as soon as the Second World War had finished, a war in which thousands of British soldiers had already given their lives defeating World Jewry's mortal enemy Adolf Hitler.

This was the thanks our soldiers got from the zionists.

In July 1946, a cowardly bomb attack on the King David hotel in Jerusalem, claimed the lives of some 200 people, many of them civilians.

By May 1948, a further 200 soldiers and 90 Police Officers had been murdered in Palestine by the Zionists.

In the forty-six years that have past, both murderers, Begin and Shamir, have visited Britain as "Honoured guests" of Her Majesty's government.

To their eternal shame, the politicians of the day, greeted the murderers with open arms, instead of British justice, and the noose.

THEY chose to forget the horrendous crimes committed against Sergeants, Martin and Paice, WE WILL NOT !

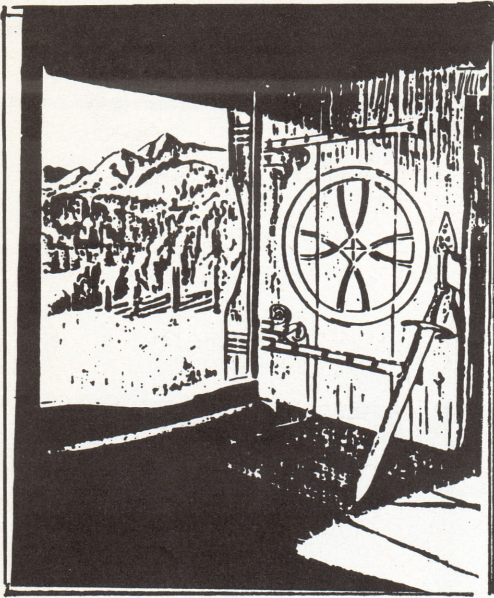

THE PICTURE THEY TRIED TO "KILL"

The original photograph was taken by an Associated Press photographer.

A "Wired copy" appeared in the "Daily Express" newspaper on August the 1st 1947, and this provoked a storm of protest from Jewish groups.

A clearer copy went into the files of Associated Press in London, along with several others showing the bodies being taken down and carried away.

As a result of pressure from both the Israeli government and their zionist agents in Britain, all the photographs of this horrendous crime were later removed from the files and destroyed!

RED VIOLENCE HITS ELECTION CAMPAIGN

THE HOME OFFICE REJECTS CALL TO BAN THE BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY

Home Office Minister, Peter Lloyd, has rejected demands by Labour MP's Dianne Abbott, and John Austin-Walker, to ban the British National Party, under the "Prevention of Terrorism Act". The legislation by which the IRA is outlawed. Ms Abbott, MP for Hackney North, claimed that for "Blacks and Jews", the BNP and other "Fascist" organisations were "terrorist organisations, in name and fact."

Her Party colleague, John Austin-Walker, then attempted to link recent racial attacks in the Bexley area, with the presence of the BNP bookshop, which he continually described as a "Headquarters".

Ms Abbott, conveniently protected from the laws of libel by parliamentary privilege, added that she felt that it was "no coincidence that the murder of Black teenager Stephen Lawrence, and a number of other racial attacks, had taken place within a few miles of the BNP bookshop."

Mr Peter Lloyd, for the Home Office, conceded that there had been an increase in racial attacks in the area over the past 12 months, but said that none of these could be directly attributed to the BNP.

The Government's view was that any move to proscribe the BNP under the Prevention of Terrorism Act would create a dangerous precedent, giving authorities 'the power to close down fringe groups across the entire political spectrum.'

As is usual, violence by opposition groups who are too frightened to present their own policies to the democratic system, somewhat marred the local elections on May 6th. Nevertheless, Nationalist candidates did well in some areas, and valuable experience was gained in electioneering by many first time candidates.

The National Front, with three candidates in Hertfordshire, faced a particularly violent campaign of intimidation, with opposition from the Socialist Workers Party "Front" group, the Anti-Nazi League, and the Sinn Fein "groupies" from Red Action. It must be noted that neither organisation had the courage to field their own candidates.

In Hemel Hempstead, the NF held a successful march, but violence broke out at their election rally when members of Red Action, clearly incensed at the NF's condemnation of their beloved IRA, started to throw chairs. Three people were arrested. Protesters from the Anti-Nazi League, who had gathered outside of the meeting venue, scattered when Riot Police arrived, leaving a selection of weapons behind them.

Simon Deacon, the NF candidate for Kings Langley, had his van attacked and vandalised by a "democrat" with a knife, but the resulting publicity, and the indignation of the General Public, saw Simon poll 102 votes.

In nearby South Oxhey, the BNP candidate, Peter Illing polled 115 votes, (5%) which was very encouraging considering the BNP had not stood in the area before. Steve Batkin stood in Stoke on Trent, and polled 99 votes (4.3%).

In Colne, BNP candidate Shaun Crambie, faced a vicious "smear campaign" from the local press, as well as demonstrators from various leftish "rent-a-mobs", and still managed to gain 162 votes (3.4%).

In Wales, Tony Morgan stood in the Cardiff area, and achieved the BNP's best ever Welsh vote of 4%.

The experience gained by both candidates and election teams will be invaluable for the future, and the "exposure" to a shocked general public, of "anti-Fascist, anti-democratic" protesters must be capitalised on by Nationalists for the future.

ICI JOINS ISRAELI BOYCOTT

One of Britain's biggest industrial companies I.C.I. has admitted that the company has joined the Arab sponsored boycott of Israeli goods.

Predictably, the I.C.I. confession has led to condemnation from pro-Zionists, but a company source told League Sentinel "our first priority is to protect the company and its employees, and joining the boycott seems to be better for our long term prospects".

A private members bill by Tory MP Spencer Baptiste, a prominent member of the Conservative Friends of Israel, seeks to make compliance with the boycott illegal, is due to be debated later in the year, but is not expected to succeed.

The U.S. and Germany, have both introduced "anti-boycott" legislation recently, following demands by their immensely powerful Zionist Lobby groups.

NEW ZIONIST LOBBY FOR BRITAIN

A new "Zionist lobby is being established by the Labour Friends of Israel, to "boost the image of Israel in Westminster".

The lobby, will include current L.F.I members such as Kim Howells, Gerald Steinberg, Gwineth Dunwoody, Michael Gape, Norman Hogg, Stuart Bell and Barbara Roche, as well as the new LFI director, David Herman.

Herman was previously the Union of Jewish Students Campaigns Officer.

TOP LAWYER BOYCOTTS DUCHESS.

Leading Libel Lawyer, Arnold Goodman, has refused to continue acting for the Duchess of York, on the grounds that she and her Father recently attended a dinner at an American Country Club that refuses admission to Jews either as members or visitors.

Lord Goodman, is the President of the Union of Progressive Synagogues.

ANTI-FASCIST FOUND GUILTY

"Anti-Fascist" activist, Paul Denny, was found guilty of affray, at Thames Magistrates Court recently, following his arrest at Waterloo Station last September. Denny, aged 23, of Plashet Grove, East Ham, London, was arrested for throwing objects at young Nationalists who were meeting at the Station on the way to a music concert.

Denny pleaded not guilty, but magistrates dismissed his claims of mistaken identity. Denny was conditionally discharged, and bound over for 12 months.

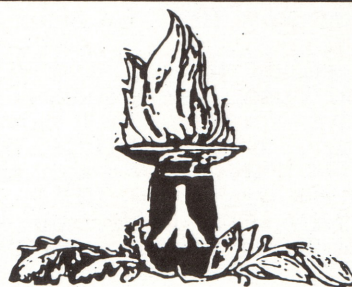

DYKES DUMPED!

Tory MP Hugh Dykes, has been dumped from the executive committee of the Conservative Friends of Israel in retaliation for joining a PLO sponsored visit to the occupied territories earlier this year.

NEW HOME SECRETARY APPOINTED

Britain's new Home Secretary, Michael Howard, is an active member of North London's, St Johns Wood Liberal Synagogue.

Mr Howard, aged 51, is a qualified barrister, and once practiced law in the same chambers as the current President of the Board of Deputies, Judge Israel Feinstein.

LEAGUE NEWS.

We were particularly alarmed to hear that a Nationalist who had his name and address mentioned in the April edition of Searchlight, later suffered an arson attack at his home.

We were then sickened by Searchlights later allegation that the Nationalist may have tried to burn down his own home with his wife and children in occupation.

These scum should really crawl back into the sewers from which they emerged.

Talking about scum, did anybody read the column allegedly written by renegade Nazi Ray Hill, in Searchlights June edition?.

In it, Ray seems to try and distance himself from boss Gerry's new found friends in the "Troops Out" movement, by criticising his attitude that all anti-Fascists should automatically support Sinn Fein and the IRA.

Could this all be a bluff? or is Ray getting cheesed off with the Red Action "provo's"?

Perhaps you should stick to more leisurely occupations, like stacking groceries, Ray!

"Grocer Ray" doesn't like "Irish Stew"!

With the new football season just a few weeks away, it would seem that anti-Fascists are gearing themselves up to do some recruiting at various grounds. League Sentinel has been told that several groups of football fans are looking forward to introducing themselves to the anti-Fascists, particularly lads from the Chelsea "Headhunters", and Millwall's "Bushwackers".

Issue 2 of "The Order" is now available, and the new layout and typesetting has produced a much better publication. It is not for General sale, and has to be ordered from BM Box 5608, London. WC1N 3XX. But please enclose a SAE with your inquiry if you expect an answer.

Most British Nationalist look towards either the British National Party, or the National Front, to eventually gain victory through the ballot box, and save this country from disaster.

But nobody is naive enough not to realise that the road to victory is a long hard one.

Nationalist support is growing slowly, but our enemies are many.

So can anybody tell me, what has been gained by the bulletin issued by the West Midlands Regional Organiser for the National Front, who has effectively banned NF members from associating with those from the BNP?

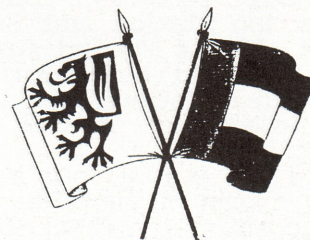

In these days of struggle, and bearing in mind the immense task that we face, surely every willing hand must be welcome!

The League of St George has decided to affiliate to the "Friends of the Boer Nation". This seeks to be a support group for our White kindred, both English and Boer speaking, who are faced with a Racial "Holocaust" should the ANC gain power.

It is probable, that in the near future, the "Friends" will be asking for young White volunteers to go to South Africa, to assist in the "Struggle".

Shamen drummer hurt in backstage incident

"Unity Carnival" is the strangely named event organised annually by the IRA's new friends Anti-Fascist Action.

The event has never lived up to it's name, and normally finishes with a surge of internal violence.

Last year, there were clashes between various "anti-Fascist groupings, and one female lefty was left with a broken nose, delivered most "comradely" by a member of AFA

Hackney, in East London has been its traditional venue, but for a variety of reasons, including a ban by the local authority, and fears of either retaliation by fellow "anti's" still incensed by last years fracas, plus the ever present danger of attacks by politically motivated opponents such as C18, the organisers decided to decamp to the North East.

Nuns Moor, Fenham, near Newcastle, was the venue chosen, and extensive publicity for a "Free Pop Concert", even one being held in a muddy field, attracted a couple of thousand local youngsters.

The local authority, who would not be out of place in old Moscow, also provided some serious funding. All of course out of taxpayers money.

There were jugglers, drug dealers, a communist bookstall, and six different bands. All household names of course, such as MC Fusion? APU? even a White reggae band called AOS3??

There was also of course, the traditional punch-up.

Remarkably enough, the fighting started not in the audience but backstage, and was initially between artists who had donated their miniscule talents for free, and those that were rumoured to be getting paid up to £6,000 for the days work.

It seem to spread quite quickly, and was heading for a full scale riot, when the Police and stewards stepped in.

In the fracas, the drummer of one of the bands, "The Shamen" received a head injury, and the lead singer was so upset that he cancelled another appearance scheduled for that evening.

Superintendent Alan Walker, of the St Johns Ambulance Brigade confirmed to our "Sentinel" reporter, that there had been a total of 26 casualties, five of whom required hospital treatment, but the Tyne & Wear Anti-Fascist leader, Ray Bell, described the event as "a great success".

● UPSET — row caused Mr C to cancel club date

After the Saturday concert which ended at about 7.30pm, Mr C was due to appear at Global Village nightclub in Whitley Bay.

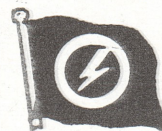

However boss Mike Wickenden said: "We got a call from the manager to say that the band had witnessed a fight backstage and one of the tour party had been injured.

"The band was very shaken. They are very anti-violence and they felt they could not send Mr C to DJ at the club."

Sir Alliott Verdon-Roe

THE FATHER OF BRITISH FLYING

Whenever there is a mention in the media of the British Union of Fascists, or Mosley's "Blackshirts" as they are more normally referred to, it is almost always to do with violence at Cable Street, or Earls Court. Thus in the minds of the public, Mosley's followers were all to a man, vicious thugs and bully boys.

This of course, is what the media intend us to believe, afraid that people might want to study the ideas and policies of Mosley, and thus upset the established "Order", and so it is left to us, and a few others, to tell the truth.

For, within those ranks of Blackshirts were great writers, great thinkers and great engineers. This article, first published in issue 32 of "Comrade" is about a great engineer, who was also a proud Blackshirt. A man whose very name was a landmark in British engineering, Sir Alliott Verdon-Roe, founder of the world famous "AVRO" Engineering Company.

When, in the early 1900's, the young marine engineer and pioneer motorist A.V. Roe started to design and construct a machine that he said would fly, there were many who regarded him as a madman. Until, on a day in June 1908, when in a full size aeroplane, at the old "Brooklands" car racing circuit, he became the first person to fly in Britain, leaving the ground for distances of 75 and 150 feet, almost a year before the first official Royal Aeronautical Society recognised flight. Designed and built by himself, in paper, bamboo, wire and wood, the machine followed the lines of a model aeroplane with which he had won a competition some months earlier. Yes! Britain's first manned flight was in a lifesized "model" aeroplane!

A doctor's son, Alliott Verdon-Roe, was born in Patricroft, near Manchester. At the age of 14, he went to Columbia to study civil engineering. On his return, a year later, he served an apprenticeship at the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Locomotive works, followed by two years at sea, as a marine engineer.

Back on shore, he entered the fledgling motor industry as a draughtsman and designer.

After his historic first flight he developed and improved his "model" aeroplane, and in 1909 flew 880 yards in his new "Roe 11" triplane.

In 1910, he founded in Manchester, with his brother as a partner, the firm that would eventually carry his name and achievements throughout the world.....

.. "A.V. Roe and Co Ltd".

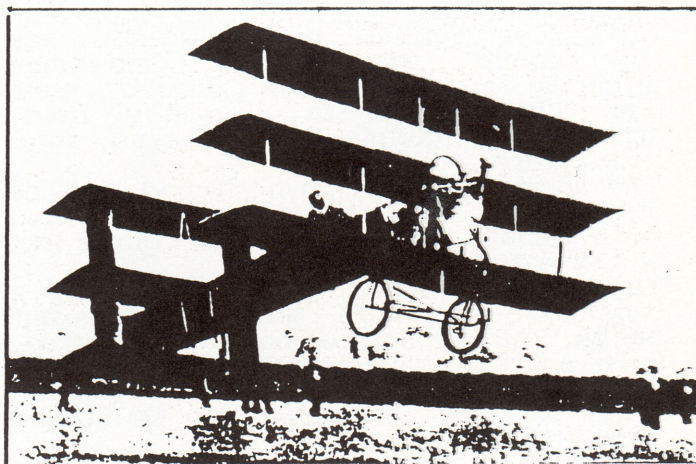

They began to build planes under the trade name "AVRO".

With the innovative skills of A.V. Roe, the company soon developed new sophisticated machines.

In 1913, the company launched its newest development the AVRO 504.

It was the combat version of the 504 that bombed zeppelins at Friedrichshafen shortly after the outbreak of WW1, and it was an Avro, flown by Commander Bigsforth, that brought down the first Zeppelin over England.

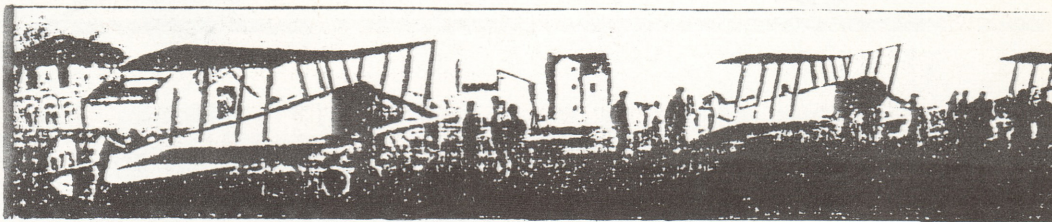

THE START OF A LEGEND

1909, and A.V. Roe flies 880 yards in his revolutionary Triplane the "Roe 11".

The AVRO Story

Three Avro 504s prepare to take off from Belford on the historic raid on the Zeppelin base at Friedrichshafen in November 1914.

In 1917, the newly formed "Royal Flying Corps" chose the 504 as the most suitable plane to use for training new pilots, and by 1918 it had trained the majority of the pilots in the RFC, which was then the largest Air Force in the World.

In fact the plane was so highly regarded for its simplicity of operation combined with a marvellous safety record, that it continued in use with the RAF until 1933. The end of the war brought peace to Britain, and the OBE to Verdon-Roe, but severe government cuts in military spending put the majority of aircraft builders out of business.

AVRO managed to survive, and sought to develop new planes that would be cheaper to buy and more economical to run. This venture was not a success, but in the mid 1920's the government seeing the importance that aircraft, and trained pilots would have in the future, sponsored flying clubs and light-plane competitions.

This caused a market for a light, high powered plane, that would be capable of carrying more than one person. Using the adapted plans of the successful 504, the company produced two new models, the AVRO "Bluebird" and "Avion".

In 1927, Captain W.N. Lancaster, and Mrs Keith Miller, used an "Avion" to make the first ever light aviation flight to Australia.

In 1928, the AVRO company was bought by Siddley Ltd, who would eventually develop into the massive Hawker-Siddley empire.

A.V. Roe, used the part of the money from his share of the sale, to buy an interest in another small aircraft manufacturer S.E.Saunders Ltd, and it was under the title of "Saunders-Roe" that they build "SARO Flying Boats" for the Air Ministry.

In 1934, having been knighted for his achievements, his patriotism and pioneering spirit led him to join the British Union of Fascists.

His capabilities were soon recognised, and he became an advisor to the Blackshirt Policy Directorate.

In World War 2, with his leader, and many of his Blackshirt Comrades incarcerated in concentration camps under the infamous regulation "18b", he was also to suffer the loss of two of his sons, both killed serving with the RAF.

Although no longer connected, aircraft bearing his name, such as the AVRO "Anson" the plane designed for anti-submarine warfare, and the AVRO "Lancaster" of the "Dambusters" fame served Britain with distinction.

After the War, Sir Alliott Verdon-Roe remained a staunch supporter of Oswald Mosley and his Union Movement, in spirit financially, and as a regular contributor to the publication "Union". Sir Alliott Verdon-Roe was a great fighter right up to his death in January 1958. He was then 81 years old.

His story, not only belies the media efforts to typecast Mosley's Blackshirts but serves as an example to Britain's youth of today. For it our youth that must reach for the skies and strive to restore the greatness of Britains past.

A Britain strong again from the wealth of endeavour and genius of its forefathers that history suggests were born to lead, its new generations joined in British Union, leading the European peoples in Mosley's concept of the ever striving to higher forms of existence!

FRENCH AIM FOR ZERO IMMIGRATION

The newly elected French Government, has announced plans to halt all further immigration into the country. Mr Chares Pasqua, the French interior minister who announced the plan said "Because of the seriousness of our economic situation, our target must be ZERO immigration.

France currently has more than three million unemployed, and over four million "foreigners" legally resident in the country.

Over 100,000 immigrants, mainly from North Africa, have legally entered the country each year for the past ten years, plus tens of thousands of "illegals".

In addition to the "Zero" immigration plans, France has started to implement a "Repatriation" scheme, in which immigrants, mainly from the former French colonies of North Africa, are being given financial incentives to "go home".

Whilst the plan has been widely welcomed by most Frenchmen, cynics regard it as an "Establishment" move, to draw support away from the French National Front.

This is a similar tactic used by the British Conservative Party in the 1970's which succeeded in enticing voters away from the British National Front.

To complement the strong line being taken by France, EEC Ministers meeting in Denmark, have agreed on common guidelines to combat illegal immigration. The guidelines, which could become mandatory, recommends that tighter checks be made throughout the EEC on all Aliens, and the immediate expulsion of those residing or working in any EEC country without authorisation.

AUSTRALIA

A Supreme Court Jury took less than an hour to reach a unanimous Not Guilty verdict in Australia's first ever "War Crimes" Trial.

The accused, was 76 year old Ivan Polyukhovich, who it was claimed, had some involvement in the deaths of some 850 Jews in his native Ukraine in 1942.

The Judge, Mr Brian Cox, told the Jury that he felt that it would be dangerous to convict Mr Polyukovich on the "flimsy evidence" produced by the prosecution.

The Trial started in 1989, and has costs the Australian taxpayer millions of dollars.

UNITED STATES.

Ken Ringle, a reporter on the prestigious "Washington Post" newspaper, cused uproar when he produced an article accusing Washington's new "Holocaust Museum" of "distorting the historical record".

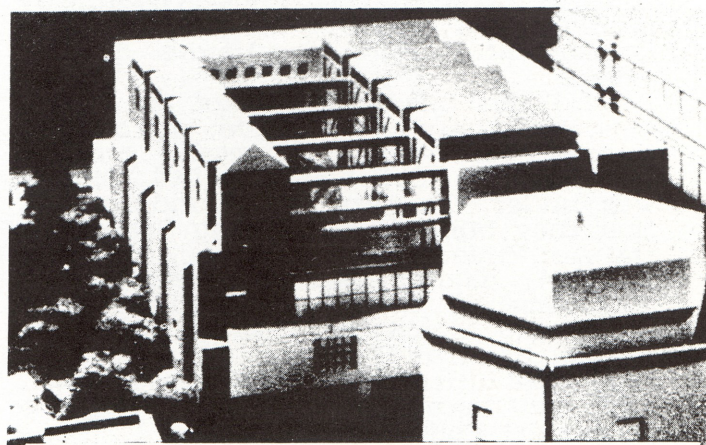

Mr Ringle went on to justify his accusations by pointing out the museum's deliberate omission of the "positive side of National Socialism, and the qualities of its leader Adolf Hitler".

Hitler, says Ringle, was a "managerial genius, his incredibly rapid transformation of a nation in social, economic and political chaos, into one with a productive economy, full employment, booming agriculture, and trains that arrived on time".

Mr Ringle also accused the museum of "suggesting that Jews had a monopoly in World War 2, of Persecution, suffering, and ghastly death..." he added that "it is possible to become just a little impatient with the evocations of the holocaust".

As would be expected, the article has been criticised by such "unbiased" bodies as the "Anti-defamation League" and B'nai B'rith.

The museum which opened in April, cost an estimated $168 million dollars, much of it supplied by the U.S. taxpayer.

SOUTH AFRICA

South Africa's Conservative Party, have elected 57 year old, Ferdi Hartzenberg, as their new leader to replace Andries Treurnicht, who died recently from a heart attack.

Following a series of Racial Attacks on Whites, including the brutal murders of 56 farmers so far this year, four ex-Military Generals, led by the former Chief of the South African Defence Force, General Constand Viljoen, have formed the "Afrikaner Volksfront", with the intention of uniting the many White Nationalist organisations under one umbrella.

AWB leader, Eugene Terreblanche, has already thrown the weight of his organization behind the new group. The A.V. have demanded that the Government suspends negotiations with the ANC until the murders cease, and the perpetrators are apprehended.

VIEWPOINT

The man pictured here has had an even worse 12 months than H.M the Queen, with her well publicised "annus horribilus".

Just a few months ago, in August, he was seen hurriedly leaving the normally peaceful Flemish town of Dixmuide, nursing a suspected broken nose, after being discovered trying to take "Politically compromising" photographs of young European Nationalists who were somewhat the worse for drink.

He then, to his horror, found himself returning to England on the same boat as another group of Nationalists, who recognised him as being a photographer for a well known anti-Fascist journal.

Then just recently, our intrepid anti-Fascist decided to join in a demonstration organised by a militant Black group, to protest against "Racist Murders", and to demand the closure of the BNP bookshop.

Unfortunately for him, his "ethnic brothers" got themselves so hyped-up on race attacks, that they decided to carry out a few themselves, and guess whose was the first White face that they saw? yes, that of the AFA photographer.

Again, it was unfortunate, that they were not at all impressed by his impeccable "anti-Fascist" credentials, he was White, and that was enough to secure a beating. We will not at this stage, add to his misery by revealing his full name, just his new nickname... "Lucky"...

* * * * *

Searchliar, when not busy accusing every Nationalist who has ever been to a Patriotic event over the past 20 years, of being a secret member of C18, or when not accusing an unknown Dagenham Security Guard, of being the League leader /postman/bookkeeper/treasurer/chief cook and bottlerwasher, they seem to spend the rest of their time promoting a "hate" campaign against a fellow lefty researcher named Larry O'Hara. It would seem that O'Hara has committed the cardinal crime of "challenging" Gable for the "best anti-Fascist researcher of the year" title. It would also seem that O'Hara knows a great deal about the Searchliar team, and suspects them of passing on membership lists of lefty groups to the Police, in exchange for information on Nationalists. O'Hara, has on occasions even provided proof of Searchliars duplicity.

This could of course explain why certain members of AFA were quickly rounded up by the Police under the prevention of terrorism act.

No wonder O'Hara is no longer on Gable's Christmas card list.

* * * * *

Many other groups and individuals on the left also firmly believe that Searchliar trades information with M.I.5 and Special Branch. Whilst we Nationalists are more used to seeing members of Gerry's "team" burrowing down our dustbins for information.

But I do wonder from which of these sources did Searchliar obtain a copy of a letter from Marc Wadsworth of the "Anti Racist Alliance" to the Metropolitan Police Commissioner Paul Condon?

Surely not from "Old Bill's" dustbin??

* * * * *

Is it just me, or has anybody else noticed Gerry's recent fetish about "PIGS"?

Every page of Searchliar seems to refer to them. There is Rob the "pig", Charlie the "pig", Ray the "pig", Tim the "pig", and even a real life "ginger pig". Could it be an allergy to "Grocer Ray's" new bacon slicer? or is it because he listens to so much "slurry" from the "swine" that he associates with?

Anti Nazi League

ANOTHER DEMO: ANOTHER FLOP!

The Clarendon Club managed to stage two successful meetings featuring the respected Historian David Irving within a month, despite threats of violence, from those who would wish to stifle free speech and discussion on the "Holocaust".

The First seminar, was held in East London, and following rumours that it was to be Policed by the Independent Security Team, "Combat 18", it faced very little opposition from the "anti-democrats".

Several opposition photographers did appear, and one or two who ventured too near the Security, left the area hurridly, nursing facial wounds.

At the seminar, Mr Irving outlined to a 150 strong audience, how he had been persecuted because of his search for the "Truth".

Several countries, at the behest of the "Holocaust Lobby" had even gone as far as banning entry to him.

He also defended a position of "Mind Britain's Business" regarding the present conflict in the Balkans.

Continuing on his favourite subject of Historical Revisionism, he told a delighted audience that he would be publishing a second volume of "Hitler's War" in March 1994. This would enlarge the evidence, that for much of his political career Churchill had been in the pay of Zionist Jews.

The second seminar, took place at the pleasant South Coast seaside resort of Brighton, once famed for being a favourite watering hole of the Royal Family.

Unfortunately for the many holidaymakers seeking peace and quiet, a gang of "Lollypop men" from the Anti-Nazi League, their numbers boosted by some 100 "dossers, down and outs, and tramps" attempted to prevent the seminar taking place.

However, the venue for the seminar was a well kept secret, and a "dummy" venue drew most of the protesters to picket the bemused staff and patrons of the "Old Ship Hotel".

A large Police presence at Brighton station, many in riot gear, prevented the "Dossers/Lollypop Alliance" from confronting those arriving for the seminar, although one man, John Kilnan, of Halland Road, Brighton was arrested and charged with two assaults on Police, and threatening behaviour. A number of "meths" bottles were also confiscated.

At the meeting, Mr Irving addressed a 100 strong audience, and outlined his dedication to Historical Revisionism, and the powerful conspiracy of "vested interests" that was intent on silencing all debate on the subject.

The "Lollypop/Dosser Alliance" march!

ETHNIC VIOLENCE HITS EUROPE

As Europeans begin to react against the traitorous policies of their Governments, in flooding countries with third world immigrants, the frustrations particularly, of the young has often evolved into violence against those that they perceive as being "occupiers" of their native lands. In many countries the authorities have responded by introducing some very cosmetic "tighter immigration controls". But as the immigrants realise that the tide of public opinion is against them, and in fact their days of milk and honey are now limited, many are turning to violence and looting, hoping to frighten their host governments into removing the spectre of repatriation.

In Germany, thousands of mainly Turkish economic immigrants used the deaths of 5 Turkish women in Solingen, as an excuse to start a series of Race Riots, which in turn became a cover for a massive looting spree. In Solingen, 5 nights of rioting by 2000 immigrants, saw some 50 shops looted, and a damage bill of almost Four Hundred Thousand pounds.

Several German shopkeepers were badly beaten when they tried to defend their property, and roving gangs of immigrants attacked defenceless Whites at random. Even the German Labour Minister, Norbert Blum, was attacked, and his Official car set on fire.

The rioting spread to Hamburg, where Four Thousand immigrants looted shops, and dragged German drivers from their cars and attacked them. Over 100 private cars were damaged or destroyed. Police had to use water-cannon to disperse the rioters, and made 30 arrests.

In other German cities, the pattern of violence was the same. Riot! Attack Whites! Smash property! and loot shops!

In Bielefeld Riot Police battled with 5000 demonstrators, and in Bonn and Bremen over 100 arrests were made.

The violence only abated when Chancellor Kohl denounced the immigrant riots, and promised that "Immigrant Fanatics arrested in street battles would be DEPORTED!"

The death of Black teenager, Stephen Lawrence, was the excuse used by militant Black and "anti-Fascists" groups to organise the protest march that heralded a day of violence for South London residents.

The march organisers decided to hold this protest, despite condemnation from the deceased parents, who were alarmed how the death of their son had been "hijacked" by extremist political groups. Over a 1000 marchers assembled, and made their way to a rally addressed by speakers from the anti-White hate group, Panthers UK. Whilst Police Officers watched, the speakers whipped the mainly Black crowd into a frenzy of hate.

In fact so vitriolic were many of the speeches, that a Black newsman said that they could not report the words verbatim, for fear of falling victim to the Race Relations Act.

Once the mob had been fully incited, the organisers, with co-operation from the Police, led the marchers to the bookshop belonging to the British National Party. As expected, and with no opposition from the forces of law and order, the crazed marchers began to attack the bookshop. Suddenly things began to drift into a Riot situation, when the mob began to damage private homes adjoining the property. Soon the "protest" turned into a full scale Riot, with attacks on march stewards, press photographers and local residents. In fact anybody who was White, became a victim of the mob.

Through nearby Bexley, the protesters rampaged, looting and smashing property. A number of cars were destroyed, and Riot Police eventually made several arrests.

The decision of the Police to allow the hostile mob to march through a predominately White area must obviously be called into question, as well as, why were the mob also allowed to march anywhere near the bookshop belonging to the BNP ??
